QUALITY AND FOOD SAFETY POLICY STATEMENT

SGL Co-Packing Ltd is committed to providing a packing service that meets the highest food safety and quality standards. To continually enhance the reputation to maintain customer confidence in the products packed through the development and implementation of Quality and Food Safety systems, standards and practices.

All SGL's Management and Employees commit to continuous improvements, which are measured, evaluated and validated for effectiveness.

The company's obligation is to produce safe and legal products and believes that the responsibility for food safety and achieving it's quality commitments lies with each employee, whether directly or indirectly involved with the packing and storage of products and to build food safety and quality capability through structured programmes that develop technical skills, increase awareness and drive increasing levels of excellence.

To ensure sustainable Food Safety and Quality performances through the implementation and certification of the effective quality management systems, And to validate the effectiveness of the systems through internal and external processes recognised by The Global Standard for Food Safety Issue 7.

Continually review food safety policies, standards and procedures to effectively manage food safety risks associated with changes in products and processes.

Set annual measurable food safety and quality objectives for all operations, to ensure continuous improvement and compliance with all standards.
Ensure that all suppliers and contractors embrace the same food safety and quality commitments, and monitor the materials and services they supply through audits and incoming goods inspections.

The Company's Management are responsible for ensuring that all employees understand these objectives and are fully aware of their contribution in achieving them.
